SINGULAR PHENOMENON.—The Paris citi en describes a very remarkable meteorological phenomenon witnessed there on Wednesddy morning, between 10 and 11 found by Esq llolmes, on Monday night, in clock. The heavens was obscured by thin, gauzy clouds, through which the sun could be distinctly seen, though somewhat house and cared for, but to-day, (15th inst.), shorn of his beams. A narrow circle of upon a return of the fit of derangement, he secting the sun, extended around the heavens, having a diameter of about ninety above day from a gun shot wound in the degrees. Around the sun was another ring right thigh, while laboring under delirinm of light, of the same kind, but rather tremens, and in the act of murdering an old brighter, having a diameter, perhaps, half man by the name of Dunlap. Said wound as large as the first. This ring displayed, was justifiably given by P. Flinn, without in some of its parts, some of the colors of any intention to kill, but to disable, so as the rainbow. Where this smaller circle intersected the larger, mock snns, though no very brilliant, appeared. On the right and left of the sun, and at a considerable dis tance, appeared broken ares of a rainbow, of which, if it had been complete, the sun would have been the center. The appearances which we have imperfectly described continued for more than half an hour, and attracted much attention.

Mr. Lincoln responded as follows: Mr. Chairman, and fellow-oitizens of Cleveland: -- We have been marching about two miles through snow, rain and deep mud.

The large numbers that have turned out under these circumstances testify that you are in earnest about something or other. But do I think so meanly of you as to uppose that this earnestness is about me per-sonally? I should be doing you injustice o suppose so. The crisis, as it is called, is altogether an artificial crisis. In all parts of the nation there are differences of opinion on politics; there are differences of opinion even here; you did not all vote for the person who now PEOPLE'S INSURANCE COMPANY ddresses you; what is happening now will not hurt those who are further away from here; have they not all their rights now, as they have ever had? Do they not have their fugitive slaves returned now as ever? llave they not the same Constitution they have lived under for the last seventy odd years? Haus they not a position as citizens of this common country? And have weany power to change that position. [Cries of no!] What, then, is the matter with them? Why all, this excitement? wby all these complaints?

As I said before, this crisis is all artificial; it has no foundation in fact; it was not "argued up," as the saying is, and cannot, therefore, be "argued down." Letit alone and it will go down of itself. [Laughter]. Mr. Lincoln said that the audience must be content with but few words from him; he was very much fatigued, and had spoke so frequently that he was already hoarse; he thanked them for the cordiality shown him. Not less did he thank them for the votes they gave him last fall, and quite as much he thanked them for the efficient aid they had given the cause he represented-He had one word more to say. He was given to understand that this reception was tendered not only by his own parity and supporters, but by men of all parties. This is as it should be. If all don't join now to save the good eld-ship of the Union this voyage, nobody will have a chance to pilot her on another.

He concluded by thanking all present for the devotion they have shown to the Constitution and the Union. At the close of the speech lir. Lincoln
